By Leigh-Anne Fox

Four Cromwell College students have rocked their way into third place at this year's Central Otago Smokefreerockquest finals held in Queenstown last weekend.

Ash Stanley-Suter, Sam Leckie, Nevis Colloty-Spiers and Jamie Morton took to the stage performing two original pieces written and performed by the group of talented young musicians.

Jamie and Ash are no strangers to playing in bands together, having teamed up over three years ago, while Nevis and Sam joined the duo earlier this year.

The band auditioned in Wanaka earlier in the year, qualifying to take part in the finals. With jam sessions packed with perfecting their performance, the guys were finally ready to take on the best and compete against the other 11 rock bands from throughout the Central Otago region.

Although this is the end of the road as far as Smokefreerockquest goes for The Usual Strangers, as only the first two winning bands will go onto the next

Family humbled by Cromwell's support

By Leigh-Anne Fox

Grace Moore is beautiful, brave, and only three and a half years old.

Diagnosed with a Grade 1, inoperable tumour in the brainstem, Grace and her family have had to leave their home in Cromwell to be in close proximity to Christchurch hospital, where Grace is receiving chemotherapy treatment, in an attempt to shrink the tumour.

Ronald McDonald House (South Island) has become home for the Moores for the foreseeable future and Grace's mother Paula is overwhelmed and humbled by the support the family are receiving on a daily basis.

"Before our need for a facility like Ronald McDonald House, I wasn't aware of the role the house played, or of the importance for families like ours.

"We are surrounded by support, volunteers who cook us dinner most evenings, other families going through the same kinds of challenges and a private and peaceful place to gather our thoughts at the end of the day," she says.

Grace was diagnosed two months ago, and since then, life has changed dramatically, not just for her, but also for her identical twin sister Sophie, her brother Beau (18 months), and parents Paula and Alex.

Grace's parents would like to let the people of Cromwell know how well Grace is doing, and that thanks to Ronald McDonald House, coupled with the incredibly high levels of support of family, friends and the people of Cromwell, they have been in a much stronger place to deal with the unpredictable nature of Grace's condition and treatment.

"We are incredibly grateful to be able to spend time as a family to support Grace on this journey and to do our best to create a new normal that is as fun and enjoyable as it can be, for the kids.

We couldn't imagine how hard it would be if we were not together.

"We are so lucky to live in a special town like Cromwell where everybody rallies around to help local families in need, we are blown away by how much support and kindness we have been shown, and we feel this is something unique to Cromwell.

We are very proud to call Cromwell home and look forward to getting back level, the boys are thrilled with their placing, and surprised with the amount of talent out there to have placed so highly.

Wakatipu High School bands Haven and Cheery Moon took both first and second place ahead of The Usual Strangers and will now compete for a place at the national competition in September.

Ash, Nevis, Jamie and Sam would like to extend their thanks to music teachers Mrs Forsyth and Ms Copland for their support and guidance throughout the year.

"It's been a great experience getting through to the finals and then to place third is pretty cool, of course we would have liked to have got through to the national competition, but it's not to be this time," says band vocals and guitarist Ash Stanley-Suter.

Funding announced for new classrooms

By Leigh-Anne Fox

A growing community means more classrooms needed, and that's exactly what Cromwell and Goldfields primary schools received last Wednesday during a visit from Associate Minister of Education Tim Macindoe.

A warm welcome was received by Mr Macindoe on a chilly morning at Cromwell Primary School where representatives from both school's board of trustees, staff, and two representatives from the office of Member of parliament, Jacqui Dean, enjoyed a powhiri and haka performed by students.

Before the announcement was made, Mr Macindoe could not dismiss the 'hardy bunch' Cromwell students are.

Sitting on concrete, with many in short sleeved shirts, the Associate Minister was impressed by students and their abilities to brave the cold weather.

With $3 million available to develop six new classrooms allocated to Cromwell primary schools, and a further $2 million announced for Shotover Primary School in Queenstown, the region can look forward to modern new learning environments and space to expand alongside the area.

It was announced Goldfields Primary School will receive $1 million to construct two new classrooms, while Cromwell Primary School will receive $2 million to construct four new classrooms.

This announcement is expected to ease the pressure both schools are experiencing during Cromwell's rapid growth period.

Goldfields Primary School principal Sharon Booth along with Cromwell Primary School principal Wendy Brooks, have worked together with the ministry to provide a solution for the lack of space currently being experienced, and are pleased to be able to look forward with positivity now new learning spaces have been confirmed.

The funding comes as a welcome relief and gives both schools the confidence to go forward in a growing community providing modern learning environments and space for everyone.

Promotion Group Update

Recent projects undertaken by the Promotion Group have included the installation of Cromwell's first webcam at The Gate, the update and reprinting of the Discover Cromwell holiday guide, and advertising campaigns targeting visitors in Queenstown, Wanaka and throughout the South Island.

Chairperson Janeen Wood said new marketing material was in the pipeline for the five Cromwell Summer Series events, being developed with Bill Godsall and Terry Davis(Highland Events). The Fireworks Party and Cherry Festival at Cromwell Heritage Precinct were also being developed further.

A rebuild of the Cromwell, NZ website is complete. It now features local stories, weekly photos from around the basin, webcam, events, accommodation and a wealth of other information - www.cromwell.org.nz

Funding is sourced from the Cromwell Community Board's promotional budget but the group is also reliant on member subscriptions. Details of the AGM, to be held in late August, will be published soon.

Preparations for an exciting new event, Light Up Winter, to be held in The Mall on August 4, are in full swing. Watch out for updates on the Cromwell, NZ facebook page.

Is Cromwell becoming too expensive to live?

Last week the Central Otago District Council voted to allow a measure of the market to affect the rents they charge for pensioner flats in Cromwell.

Although the vote affected all such flats in Central Otago, Cromwell residents are reportedly the worst affected. Their rents will rise $10-$25 per week on top of a $19-$30 rise per week rise last year. That's a sizeable whack.

Mayor Tim Cadogan was overwhelmingly outvoted in trying to stay the rise until a review. Those who supported the rise pointed to the MSD's accommodation supplement as being available for hardship cases.

As a mayor who had hundreds of pensioner flats under my charge, I can tell you that there are fewer vexed issues. Most councils built pensioner flats in a different time, and most councils would like to be rid of them.

In addition, many pensioners in such flats usually enjoy below market rents. Although 'enjoy' is a relative word in Cromwell. Rents have soared into the stratosphere over the past two years.

So have property and residential home prices to the point where the average working family can't afford to buy an average home in Cromwell, unless they've transferred from an even hotter property market.

The average three bedroom home is statistically meant to retail for around $510,000 but as any recent auction and tender will prove, the median price seems well above.

But still Cromwell's property market booms. In part, because Queenstown and Wanaka are still soaring and Cromwell is a cheaper-than-that alternative. And, in part, because we remain the geographic centre of the hottest region in New Zealand.

The question then arises: are we pricing ourselves out of the young family market? The kind of people that you build communities, schools and facilities around?

The evidence appears to the contrary. Six new primary classrooms were announced last week to accommodate the extraordinary roll growth at Cromwell and Goldfields primary schools. The polytechnic will soon start its centralisation process too.

Although, there is anecdotal evidence of folk moving to Alexandra with its cheaper houses, more varied retail and larger high school. Yeah, but not enough. This place is still forging ahead. We're here to stay.

as soon as we are able."

During the month of July, Ronald McDonald House (South Is) are holding a 'Host a Roast' event, where every $20 donation your family and friends make for hosting dinner, goes towards helping families such as the Moores to stay together during challenging times.

Paula and Alex would love Cromwell people to get behind the event and support where they can.

More information can be found at www.rmhsi.org.nz, and a 'give a little' page has also been set up by friends of the Moore family to support them whilst Alex takes time off from teaching so the family can remain together for the duration of Grace's treatment. It will also help them with the associated additional medical, rehab and support costs for Grace. Donations can be made at www.givealittle.co.nz/cause/fundsformoorefamily

Grace is resilient and her family are incredibly proud of how she has faced every procedure, surgery and treatment.

There have been few tears, a lot of laughs and a strength shown that belies her age and condition.

The last two months have been challenging, with extreme highs and lows, but one thing the Moore family is sure of, they are humbled, amazed and grateful to be part of Cromwell's community, to be able to go through this challenge together, and have a bright and positive future to look forward to.

Alpha Street football ground lights up

By Leigh-Anne Fox

A balmy three degrees welcomed football players from The King's School from Sydney, Australia last Thursday evening as their under-12 boys football team took to the field to take on Cromwell's under-12 mixed team.

In the first night time game since lights have been installed at the Alpha Street football grounds, supporters, parents and onlookers enjoyed an exciting game which came down to a two-all draw.

The King's School are touring the South Island with both a rugby and football team, and support did not fall short for the visiting team, with the rugby players turning up to cheer on their Aussie comrades.

Cromwell players were pleased with the opportunity to play a part in the Australian's tour, and had no idea what to expect when running onto the field.

However, a few minutes into the game Cromwell had proved that even though it's not a city school, it has the ability to hold its own against city teams and host international players.

A uniquely southern Kiwi dinner of pork sliders, sausage sizzles and milo was shared between the two teams and supporters as well as an exchange of club ribbons.

A plaque was presented to the Cromwell Football Club and president Greg Sinnott gives full credit to coach Steve Robertson, manager Nicky Robertson and the players who went out and played like champions.

"The night time game was a highlight for our players this year.

It was great to see the kids mixing with each other after the game and having a chance to catch up while sharing a meal.

I'm very proud of our players and feel they played an excellent and exciting game of football," says Greg.

Sunday saw the 2017 football season come to an end, and with Cromwell boasting 134 players for their club this year, the game is going strong in the region.

LEGAL SPEAK

with Doreen Evans

Legal Speak: Building Boom - how to get paid?

You won't achieve your dreams if you don't get paid. How can the Construction Contract Act 2002 ("Act") help you with your cash flow?

The Act enables parties to agree to the terms of the number of payments, the interval between payments, the amount of each payment and the date each payment is due.

The Act also establishes a right to progress payments for commercial contracts. Many residential contracts operate on a progress payments basis also. For example, the first progress payment may be a deposit when the building consent has been issued, then when the foundations are laid, then when the roof is on, then when the build is closed in etc. Often the final payment happens when the build is 'practically complete'.

Where terms have not been agreed the default terms of the Act apply allowing the builder to invoice on a monthly basis.

To ensure you have the best chance of getting paid your invoice needs to comply with the 'payment claim' requirements of the Act. These include invoices being in writing, describing the work completed during the relevant period, the amount to be paid and date for payment. The invoice must also describe how the claimed amount is calculated and state it is made under the Act.

A payment claim must also outline the process for responding to the claim and the consequences of not responding or paying the amount due.

Next time we will describe how the Act can help you obtain payment if the requirements of a payment claim are met and what happens if they aren't meet.

Beauty advice for the winter season

By Leigh-Anne Fox

It's easy to slip into the comfort of track pants and baggy sweaters, neglect our skin and deny our bodies the treat of moisturisation.

Living in a small town gives us every excuse to ignore latest products, trends and techniques.

However, catching up with beauty therapist Juliet Kavanagh reminds us of the importance a good skin care routine provides, and clarifies well defined eyebrows and manicured nails are not an option, but a necessity this season.

"Winter is a time to treat our skin with extra care from the environment. A harsh climate and fluctuating room temperatures play havoc with our complexions, and creating a barrier to trap moisture and protect the skin is important," says Juliet.

Below are Juliet's top tips for a brighter complexion over the winter months.

1. Exfoliate

Both oily and dry skin needs a good scrub to remove dead skin cells, allowing moisture to penetrate.

2. Drink water

Six to eight glasses of water a day will help keep skin hydrated throughout the colder months.

3. Use peels

Winter is a great time to use peels to help renew the appearance of tired skin. With UV rays not quite as harsh throughout winter months, peeling back the layers will reveal a much brighter complexion during a time of the year when skin is at the least risk of being affected by harsh rays.

4. Wear sunblock

Not only does sunblock protect you from any reflecting rays, but it also provides a barrier between skin and the elements which is needed in the Central Otago environment.

5. Edible cosmetics

Edible cosmetics offer so much for skin, it's time to embrace omega 3 and 6 oils, zinc, and vitamins A & C. Eat fresh fruit and vegetables, fish, nuts, and beauty oil blends consisting of cold pressed organic vegetable oils that absorb easily into the system

6. Moisturise

Use butters and oils on the body, and opt for A & C serums for the face which absorb and revitalise underneath the skin giving a good moisture base.

7. Nails and eyebrows

These are no longer trends, but are treatments that are here to stay. Magenta is this year's colour for both hands and feet.

8. Good sleep

Finally, skin repairs itself between the hours of 11pm and 3am, so it's imperative to get a good night's sleep to help with skin renewal. Lavender oil is the perfect way to relax, unwind and prepare for a good night's sleep.

"With a little effort, and being aware of the harsh climate, our winter complexions can glow just as beautifully in the winter as in the summer," adds Juliet.

Cromwell football teams win their fair share

Editorial supplied

On a sodden Sunday with rain drumming down upon the early teams, Cromwell junior football teams ended their winter season with a good measure of success.

Two teams won their respective grades – the Under 10 division two ATD team defeating the unbeaten Wanaka All Stars one-nil in a thrilling Cup final.

Elise Holton’s team may have been underdogs in the final but Willie Williams scored a weaving solo goal and they hung on bravely for the honours.

And Steve Robertson’s Under 12 division one team won its Plate competition. This was a team promoted mid year, and it has done the club proud.

There was also dramatic success for another under 10 division two team, BP2go Cromwell.

It won third place in the Cup competition in a sudden death penalty shoot-out, after a one-all draw with the higher ranked Wanaka Assassins.

Teams from Under 17 grades to Cromwell ATD captured the Under 10 division two title on a sodden Sunday in Alexandra. Team and supporters were rightly overjoyed. Photo supplied

Under 8 grades endured testing conditions competing in the knock out format Finals Day with clubs from Alexandra, Wanaka and Queenstown.

Looking across the grades, Wanaka remains the dominant junior club in Central Otago but Cromwell has made outstanding strides over the past two seasons.

Brad Peterson’s Under 10 division one Cromwell Placemakers team placed second in the top league and defeated the unbeaten Wanaka United in their last league game.

Shake, rattle and roll

By Leigh-Anne Fox

It was a light rattle in Wanaka, but a rather sudden jolt in Cromwell.

Sunday’s earthquake could be heard before the thump could be felt, and it rattled nerves leaving locals wondering if that was it, or was there more to come.

Centred beside Lake Dunstan, 25km south of Wanaka at a depth of 5km, the magnitude 4.4 earthquake was a thankfully gentle reminder of the need to get up to speed with what to do in an earthquake

Survive with these five tips:

1. If you are inside, drop, cover and hold, until the shaking stops. Cover your head and neck with your arms.
2. Keep away from windows, heavy objects, and furniture that may fall on you.
3. Have an emergency kit ready to go. Visit www.getthru.govt.nz to download a checklist of what you need. Remember downloading the form will not do much if you don’t take the time to pack a portable survival pack.
4. Know where to turn off the power, water and gas to your home and clearly identify a meeting point for family.
5. Once you are safe, check on neighbours, and expect aftershocks.
